

Dear Sir, I am writing a comment that I believe that the FCC should continue to regulate broadband pricing between large phone companies and independant ISP's. I switched from a large company (SBC) to an independant ISP (sonic.net) because the service was better and the pricing competitive. This is a value to the general public, and the FCC should continue to regulate the broadband industry.